MARK WARBURTON

FIRSTLY, MAY I EXTEND A WARM WELCOME TO GARRY MONK, HIS STAFF, PLAYERS AND ALL ASSOCIATED WITH SHEFFIELD WEDNESDAY FOOTBALL CLUB.

GARRY has done a superb job with his squad thus far and they will undoubtedly be seeking to push on and claim a play-off spot come May 2nd. However, today gives both teams a respite from league action and allows focus to be on securing the victory that puts one of our two clubs in the hat for the fifth round of this fantastic competition. We look forward to a high-quality encounter and to sharing a post-game drink with Garry and his staff.

The players deserve so much credit for the victory over Leeds at the weekend!

As I mentioned in my notes previously, they were hurting from the loss to west London rivals Brentford and were desperate to deliver a performance that demonstrated to you their desire and resolve to keep taking the club forward.

I think it is fair to say that, to a man, they stood up against a very strong and expensively-assembled Leeds squad that pushed so hard in the second half of the game.

All over the pitch we saw excellent performances, with attacking flair and cleverness matched by an evident desire to defend our goal with a real passion. Be it Liam Kelly's penalty save or Nahki's alert finish, be it Bright's pace and power or Ilias' comfort in possession, we saw every player focused on making a positive contribution and as I have already said, they all deserve so much credit.

It would however be wrong of me not to highlight the performance of young Conor Masterson. After a strong display against Swansea and a solid second half against Brentford he absolutely deserved to keep his place for the Leeds fixture, despite the significance of the game. Again, he delivered an excellent performance, looking comfortable with the ball, reading the game well and ensuring 'first contact' on so many crossed deliveries. He was presented with a big challenge and rose commandingly to it!

Credit of course also to Grant Hall and Lee Wallace, both of whom used their quality and experience in helping young Conor throughout the 90 minutes.

People, especially the media, refer to personnel changes that are made as 'players being dropped'. I want to emphasise that the league demands of your squad, it tests your depth and coverage in all positions and failure to have appropriate players at your disposal can have a hugely-negative impact. The Championship places demands on the players that test their physical, technical, tactical and most importantly mental strength. Emerging from the gruelling Christmas programme, we have to ensure that we look after each and every individual in an effort to maintain tempo and intensity and to avoid injury through fatigue.

Therefore, players are not 'dropped' or 'relegated to the bench'. Rather players are looked after and the squad utilised as best we see fit for each fixture.

Finally, I want to once again thank you our supporters for your tremendous backing at the weekend. There is no doubt that we needed the support, especially in the latter stages of the game, and the players undoubtedly get a much-needed lift when the stadium volume is raised - as it was Saturday.

I have stated before that I will judge our success on how many more supporters we can get for every home game. This will tell us if our fans are enjoying supporting the team and the greater the enjoyment, the more attendances will swell. Our longer-term aim must be to fill the stadium at every opportunity and if we can achieve this goal, the club will indeed be in a very good position.

Thank you again - enjoy the game! 🙌

BBC LONDON SUMMARISER AND EX-QPR FORWARD BRADLEY ALLEN LOOKS AHEAD TO TODAY'S LATEST W12 FIXTURE...

FOR the second year in a row, Rangers tonight have a decent opportunity to make it through to round five of the FA Cup - a competition which hasn't been so kind to us over the past couple of decades.

So fingers crossed for the right result under the lights this evening, hopefully in front of a good crowd in W12.

Last weekend's win over promotion chasers Leeds United really was an excellent result, and Mark Warburton will be hoping that his QPR side can build on that victory now.

Hopefully we'll see the R's play will added freedom, creating more chances and becoming an even-stronger attacking force. Scoring goals hasn't exactly been a problem for Rangers so far this season, but the Leeds result will have given the players added confidence and belief.

We may see changes to the team tonight, including a first start for recent loan capture Jack Clarke.

I'm hopeful that Jack can make a real impact during his time at QPR. He is a talented prospect who can carry you up the pitch, take players on and make and score goals.

Tonight's visitors Sheffield Wednesday were on the receiving end of a surprising 5-0 defeat to Blackburn Rovers six days ago - such is the unpredictable nature of the Championship.

I know Mass Luongo's early sending off had an impact, though, and - at the time of writing - Wednesday are hoping that decision will be overturned. I'm sure Mass was looking forward to seeing several familiar faces on his return here tonight.

Wednesday are close to the Championship's top six and are clearly play-off contenders. They have experience and quality throughout their team. I'm a big fan of both Barry Bannan and Adam Reach.

Like Rangers, I expect them to go for this game. I think it'll be a match where we'll see a lot of opportunities and goals. [P]

SHEFFIELD WEDNESDAY

WELCOMING OUR VISITORS TO W12...

SHEFFIELD Wednesday's promotion push is on hold for a second January weekend owing to their progression in the Emirates FA Cup.

The Owls head to W12 on the back of their third-round victory over Premier League side Brighton and Hove Albion – that achieved thanks to Adam Reach's second-half strike.

Wednesday have enjoyed a largely-positive campaign to date. Following Steve Bruce's departure last summer, Lee Bullen was placed in caretaker charge before Garry Monk eventually took control on a permanent basis – and the latter has led the Owls to 10 victories from 24 games in the Sky Bet Championship.

AIDAN'S OPINION

SKY SPORTS NEWS MAN AIDAN MAGEE'S TAKE ON THE LATEST HAPPENINGS IN W12 AND BEYOND...

I WAS able to keep an eye on the Leeds game because my cameraman kindly loaned me his phone in the press box while I was working at Watford v Tottenham.

The match at Vicarage Road was a pretty lively goalless draw and because I need to stay in touch with my news desk throughout, I wasn't able to access SkyGo as I normally would on my own handset.

The post-match analysis at QPR was dominated by the alleged double handball by Nahki Wells in the build-up to his winning goal in the first half. I would only say that both times the ball looked to have moved to his arm off another part of his body.

We saw later in the day that a handball offence against Crystal Palace defender Jairo Reidewald resulted in Manchester City having a penalty denied them because it struck the player's body before hitting his hand.

The updated handball laws have been criticised this season, especially as it hasn't helped the introduction of VAR in the Premier League - but did we just see it applied in its newest form last Saturday? Maybe.

Meanwhile, talking of hands - our goalkeeper Liam Kelly and his coach Gavin Ward brought cheer to two young fans who made their first trip to QPR for the Leeds game.

Teddy and Toby Jenkins - aged 10 and eight respectively - are affected by anxiety disorder and attending the game for Teddy's birthday, all the way from Kings Lynn in Norfolk, represented a considerable challenge to grandad and lifelong Rangers fan Paul Wood, as well as the boys' mum Jessica.

During the warm-up, Toby was hit by a flying ball while sitting in the Lower Loft.

Gavin came straight over to apologise and checked they were both okay - while Liam kindly presented Toby with a pair of his gloves minutes later, just to say sorry. I'm told Gavin didn't want Teddy feeling left out on his birthday, and so he followed suit soon after by bringing over a set of his own gloves for him, too.

The boys, pictured here with mum at the game, arrived home in East Anglia at 6pm, having left their home at 8am - and described the experience as the best day of their lives! Q

TALKSPORT REPORTER TONY INCENZO'S WEIRD AND WONDERFUL TALES FROM COVERING FOOTBALL MATCHES
ACROSS THE GLOBE...

THE 1982 FA Cup final and replay against Tottenham Hotspur at Wembley Stadium are two of my most cherished memories as a Queens Park Rangers supporter.

Thirty-eight years on, I can still recall both occasions in vivid detail...

Marching down Wembley Way towards the famous Twin Towers with thousands of other R's fans before the first game waving my QPR FA Cup final flag.

I didn't have much money as a young university student back then so all I could afford was an uncomfortable bench seat in the lower tier of the stadium about eight rows back from the touchline. It was really hard to see over and through the inelegant perimeter fencing that surrounded the pitch.

The R's players lined up before the kick-off in beautiful blue-and-white hooped tracksuit tops.

Our main goalscorer Clive Allen twisted his ankle in the opening exchanges and hobbled on as best he could but had to be replaced just after half-time.

Tottenham looked dangerous but Rangers goalkeeper Peter Hucker made a string of brilliant saves.

Scoreless after 90 minutes so extra-time ensued. All of a sudden, R's midfielder dynamo Gary Waddock was clearly fouled and lay injured on the turf. But play continued and Glenn Hoddle raced through to score for Spurs against our 10 men.

Back came Rangers. Simon Stainrod's long throw-in from the left was headed on by big Bobby Hazell and Terry Fenwick powerfully nodded into the roof of the net. This prompted an outbreak of delirium among the 40,000 Rangers fans.

On to the replay on the Thursday night. Another trip to see Rangers play at Wembley Stadium! Again I was in the bench seats down at the front.

This time it was the R's who dominated.

John Gregory hit the underside of the crossbar with a magnificent lobbed volley that I thought was going in and Gary Micklewhite had a perfectly good goal disallowed for us.

Alas, Glenn Hoddle's penalty clinched the FA Cup for Tottenham. But I was so proud of my lovely, lovely Rangers. R

INTERVIEW BY TONY INCENZO

ONE OF OUR OWN

GARY WADDOCK

HOOPS CATCHES UP WITH A PAST PLAYER WHO CAME THROUGH RANGERS' YOUTH RANKS...

GARY, you were a tremendously wholehearted midfielder who made 240 appearances for the R's between 1979 and 1987. How did you originally sign for QPR and how old were you?

I was around 12 or 13 and playing for my district team in North West London. I was asked to go in for training at Queens Park Rangers and that led to me signing schoolboy forms and then an apprenticeship.

"IT WAS GREAT FOR ANY YOUNG LAD WHO WANTED TO BECOME A PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALLER"

What was your time like in the QPR youth setup?

It was great for any young lad who wanted to become a professional footballer. I was watching first-team players regularly on the training ground and I was looking up to them to see if I could join them one day. So they were exciting times as it was all I ever wanted to do. And I got a really good insight into how the club was overall in terms of players and supporters.

What do you remember of your first-team debut?

My full debut was at home to Charlton Athletic in November 1979 when I was 17 years old. Tommy Docherty was the QPR manager and he only told me I was playing just over an hour before the kick-off. I absolutely loved the whole occasion.

You were a first-team regular by the time you were 18 and you went on to become the most popular player with R's supporters during the 1980s. You had a fantastic rapport with the Loftus Road crowd, didn't you?

Well, I think it was because they could see that I gave everything out on the pitch. I would always go into challenges and try to win possession of the ball even when the odds were stacked against me. So I had a really great relationship with those Rangers fans and it was a lovely period for me personally coming through and playing in the first team at such a young age. Supporters are always on your side when they see homegrown players progressing and giving their all.

Then once Terry Venables took over the managerial reigns, everything moved to the next level here at Rangers, didn't it?

Yes - it was a brilliant spell. In fairness to Terry, he established a fantastic team. He had a real mixture and blend of experience and youth. Terry was a marvellous coach with the right man-management skills. He knew when to have a laugh and when to put us in our place. His coaching was way far in advance of anyone else at the time. You can see how good Terry was with the way his managerial career went in the years that followed.

We reached the 1982 FA Cup final under Terry. The first game against Spurs finished 1-1 and then we narrowly lost the replay 1-0 at Wembley Stadium. Those two matches must have been the highlight of your QPR career?

Oh, yeah! It's everyone's schoolboy dream to play in an FA Cup final. We were a Second Division club taking on a top-flight team in Tottenham. To appear in those two games at Wembley was so exciting for all of us. In the first match, I was fouled and laying injured on the ground when Glenn Hoddle ran through to score for Spurs. If only they had invented VAR in the 1980s - then it could have been a different decision! But we made a great recovery to get back into the game and deservedly equalised. Then we went on to win a lot of fans and plaudits for the way we played in the replay where we did enough to win.

REMINDER TO FANS

When attending Kiyan Prince Foundation Stadium or any away ground to support the team please remember to behave responsibly and adhere to the following points:

- Do not use racist, homophobic or any other abusive language
- Do not throw any object onto the playing surface
- Do not behave in an inappropriate manner
- Do not encroach on to the playing surface
- Do not enter the stadium with any flare, firework or similar device

Any supporter found guilty of any of the above may face a ban from Kiyan Prince Foundation Stadium of up to three years.

QPR have signed up to the EFL's Flares and Pyrotechnics charter meaning anyone found with a flare or pyrotechnic device within the stadium will be subject to a three-year ban. They may also be subject to criminal prosecution.

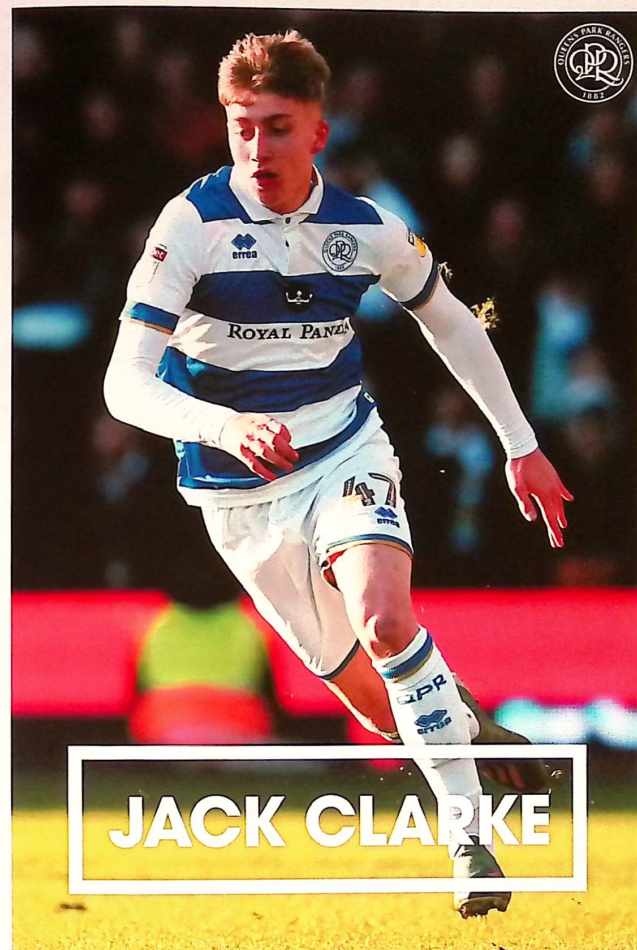

Supporters are asked to assist the Club in identifying anyone behaving in an unacceptable manner by using any of the following methods:

Calling or texting 07557 435 421
E-mailing operations@qpr.co.uk
Sending a DM to @QPROperations

All communications will be dealt with in the strictest confidence.

Thank you

CLIVE'S COMMENT

LOFTFORWORDS EDITOR CLIVE WHITTINGHAM'S OWN VIEW FROM THE TERRACES...

AT THE time of writing Sheffield Wednesday had near enough sold out the School End for this game, and are likely to be roared on by the best part of 3,000 travelling supporters.

I've never been a big one for going on about who's got the best support, who's got the worst support. Leeds would have brought more chat. It's pointless grandstanding.

With the cost of tickets, the price of trains, the amount of games in the Championship, the overall standard of those games, the cost of living and plenty else besides I've respect/awe/pity for anybody who spends their time and money following their team around - be it 3,000 noisy Villa fans or the 200 who came down here willing Burton Albion towards the 45-point survival mark.

But for a Friday night cup game, which they've known about for little more than a fortnight, and no practical train back to Sheffield tonight, that's a seriously impressive effort from tonight's visitors. Respect.

Sadly (for me, not the poor people who have to sit with me) I'm not here tonight owing to an annual work trip to the US. Insert old joke about not thinking it would be a problem to be away FA Cup fourth round day here.

I was in the air for our wonderful victory over the champions of Europe, future Real Madrid captain and England record caps holder in waiting Kalvin Phillips and all, last week. Take it from me, however torturous that second half was for you guys in the ground, it's worse trying to hold it together at 35,000 feet on intermittent plane wifi. A bargain at £12 for a couple of hours.

I got as far as Liam Kelly's penalty save, our first for the best part of two years, before the nice lady next to me asked if everything was okay.

Of course, the entire focus of the television coverage, and narrative around the game, was about the visitors, and not our own fine efforts or excellent form since the turn of the year. You expect that, particularly from our Sky overlords and their weird fascination with that club. But the overreaction to the goal, which continued for days online and included some pretty well-respected (no, honestly) Leeds fans and accounts saying QPR should be fined and docked points for revelling in a goal scored via an (accidental) handball was quite something.

Last year, Leeds scored an equaliser v Nottingham Forest via Kemar Roofe's arm, this year they've conceded one via Nahki Wells'. We had that horrendous last-minute penalty given against us at Bristol City, the Jake Livermore incident down here against West Brom, the ridiculous penalty given against us in the league game at Sheff Wed this season, and then on Saturday we got one in our favour.

It's how football has always worked, and whether we're on the right end of it or not I'll take it every day of the week over the VARce that's taking place in the league above us. R
